Quaker Ridge Lad Eliminates Jim Barnes in Hard Contest

Former National Open Champion Disposes of Mc-Lean in Morning Match, but Succumbs to Farrell 1 Up; Hackney, Ogg, Brady, Boyd, Hoffner Fail

By Ray McCarthy

OAKMONT, Pa., Aug. 14 .- In the mad scramble for position, all but sixteen of the sixty-four contestants that teed off in the first round of the American professional golfers' championship this morning were eliminated in two rounds of match play on the Oakmont County Club course here to-day. Jim Barnes, George McLean, Clarence Hackney, Willie Ogg, Mike Brady, Tom Boyd, Charlie Hoffner and a number of other stars succumbed to the gruelling and relentless pace set by the survivors.

John Farrell

Quaker Ridge golfer who elim-

day's play of the professional tournament at the Oakmont

Club, near Pittsburgh.

In spite of the casualties the Metropolitan section still has the largest representation in the field and judging York.

It was Farrell who put out Barnes in one of the hardest fought and most exciting contests ever seen in these parts. The score of the match was 1 up. In the morning round Barnes managed to eliminate the clever little George McLean, of Grassy Sprain Club, one of the finest match players in the country, by 2 and 1. In this same round Farrell going out in the scintillating figures of 33, had beaten Jack Campbell easily by 6 and 5. The meeting of Farrell and Barnes was the topic of conversation during luncheon topic of conversation during luncheon hour and there were many of the opin-ion that the youngster would be the

Barnes had not been playing well in the morning and he did not get going at all in the first nine holes of the afternoon. He was struggling, and worst of all, he was putting very poorly. The Quaker Ridge lad was prompt to take advantage of every opening with the result he was 3 up at the turn. When Farrell sank his putt of eight feet on the ninth hole after the Pelham star had failed on one of similar distance, most of the gallery concluded the match was practically ended. But if you have ever seen a champion fr any sport fight when in a pinch you can readily imagine Barnes's rally on the last nine holes and his wonderful efforts to win his match.

A Wonderful Recovery

Barnes had to take an uncomfortable stance to play his second shot. But in his masterly way he made a won-derful recovery. Unfortunately, though, derful recovery. Unfortunately, though, the ball struck a hard spot on the green and bounded clear over the green. Farrell, in pressing to get home with an iron, pushed his approach to a trap at the right of the green. The Pelham pro's chip back rolled past the hole to the edge of the green.

Farrell got out wonderfully well and had a putt of about eight feet for his four. But there was no let up on the part of the ex-national champion. He first made a practice chip stroke, then part of the ex-national champion. He first made a practice chip stroke, then with his masaie niblick played an ap-proach to the cup. The crowd gasped audibly as the ball struck the edge of tin and bounded off. Farrell was about to get his five for a half easily and his first hard struggle at match play was over. The cards were as follows:

The youngster won two very exacting and nerve-wracking matches to day, despite the fact that he had traveled from Dayton last night on a train that had no sleeping accommodations. He arrived at the course at 11 o'clock this morning, and immediately went into action, with Tom Mahan, of Haverhill, as an opponent. Sarazen won this match, 3 and 2.

In the afternoon he tackled Willie Ogg, a very steady playing professional from Worcester, Mass. Refreshed by his noon recess and luncheon, Sarazen started right after his burly opponent with all of his usual aggressiveness and confidence. He obtained a lead of four holes in short order. Then he became careless and wearied. Before long Ogg had got back all but one of the holes. But that rally served to wake up the youth, and he came through brilliantly on the last few holes, to win by 2 and 1.

Jock Hutchison, trailed by the bulk of the day's gallery, was in his usual brilliant form and had no difficulty in eliminating L. Goldbeck, of Philadelphia, and Dan Gess, of Boston, Hutchison won each match by 6 up and 5 to play. Just at present there is nobody in the field playing better golf than the Chicago fiver. What is more, there is none who is a better match player.

$1,500 Fund for Public Course Golfers Needed

THE public course golfers of greater New York have qualified to play in the public course championship to be held at Toledo late this menth.

The only way these public course players can represent New York is through a fund to be raised by the golf players and golf clubs of this city.

golf players and golf clubs of this city.

Here are the facts:

There are 160 golf clubs in the metropolitan district and over 60,000 registered golfers. Only $1,500 is needed to send this team upon the trip. And only $110 has been subscribed to date.

It is almost impossible to believe that New York golfers are quite as selfish and as indifferent as these published figures show them to be.

The next few days will show further proof. All golfers and golf clubs are requested to send their checks for any amount from $1 to $10 to Hiram Serine, 11 Shipley Street, Woodhaven, L. L.

It is up to New York golfers to see that this public course team gets its chance to play at Toledo. Any further delay will mean that the New York team must stay at home.

Few champions are keen to face two or three months of hard training again, after they have been on top two or three years. At least, this is true of the heavyweights. It helps to explain why neither Jeffries nor Willard ever liked their profession beyond the money it brought in."

The Cardinals in that event could tie them by winning seven of their ten, and the Pirates, should they do as well as to win ten of their twelve, would have sixty-eight victories and fifty-one defeats—two and a half games behind. The Giants, after the trip is over, will have a majority of home games, with the Cardinals and Pirates to come East again, and unless events prove otherwise, a home stand is considered an advantage.

The writer regards Scott as the best shortstop in baseball, having come to that opinion since Scott has been with the Yankees, thus affording opportunity to see more of his team than formerly. He (Scott) can go as far to his right as any shortstop, makes more plays around second base than anybody else, is the steadlest and truest thrower, and can go as far afield for fly balls as Bancroft. Bancroft seems a shade quicker at getting the ball away when pivot for a double play.

less events prove otherwise, a home stand is considered an advantage.

Johnny Stuart, the Ohio State College pitching product turned over to Syracuse by the Cardinals, won a teninning game from Jersey City, but his success did not keep Glenn Killinger from bumping him for three hits, one a double. Killinger went to college, too.

Whether or not Pillette had been worked too hard, as was suggested when the Yankees were in Detroit, it is a fact that many pitchers have been used in more games this year—namely: Van Gilder, Mays, Shawkey, Uhle, Bush, Rommel, Shocker, Hoyt, Morton, Johnson, Faber, Coveleskie, Robertson, Ehmke, Quinn, Vance, Cooper, Sherdel, Rixey, Aldridge, Ryan, Haines, Alexander, Grimes and Glazner.

Fred Merkle has stolen twenty-one bases in the International. He always could steal, and with the Giants was
